PUBLIC NOTICES

SPOT THE BRADFIELD BARK POSTER COMP
 We've placed 50 Bradfield Bark signs in various locations around North Sydney – just post a pic of your dog with one to be in with a chance of winning a Pet Medical basket worth $200!
 To enter the competition, find a Bradfield Bark sign and post a photo of your dog next to it on Instagram or Facebook with the hashtags #BradfieldBark #petmedicalau. Make sure your profile is public so we can see it.
 If you find more than one Bradfield Bark sign, you can enter again! Every photo taken with a different sign will secure you another entry in the competition.
 The lucky winner will be drawn out of a hat by the Mayor of North Sydney at Bradfield Bark's Dogs On Show Arena at 12pm on Sunday 26 May, so you need to be able to attend the event at this time to accept the prize if your name is called.
 Please note, all entrants will need to register at the Sydney Dogs and Cats Home stall at Bradfield Bark by 11.50am, prior to the draw. Full Terms & Conditions can be found on Council's website.

Hello there, I was hoping that someone from council could help me raise my concern about the relocated Cremorne junction citybound busstop and get Transport NSW to address the issue. You might know that the citybound busstop on the Military road opposite Cremorne Junction was recently relocated about 50m further towards the Spencer road for the peaktime morning hours. The footpath in this new area is a lot narrower than in the previous location. This busstop has always been quite busy in the peak morning hours, taking commuters towards City, North Sydney and Artarmon. So packing all those commuters in such a very narrow space is causing huge congestion and inconvenience for everyone. It is very hard to see the people lining up to

INTRODUCTION

Our External Communications Strategy outlines our communication priorities and actions to ensure North Sydney Council actively engages with all stakeholders. This plan aligns with the North Sydney Community Strategic Plan 2018 - 2028 and addresses key deliverables outlined in our current Delivery Program, 2018/19 - 2020/21.

CORPORATE VISION

Shaping a progressive, vibrant and diverse North Sydney for our community.

GOAL

To provide effective communications to the North Sydney community to ensure they are kept well informed and aware of what's happening in the local area.

BACKGROUND

North Sydney Council is committed to fostering open and timely communications with ratepayers, residents and key stakeholders.

Council has a decentralised approach to communications so that departments and staff members can correspond directly with residents, ratepayers and other customers on issues that are directly related to them, such as planning, waste or sustainability. This means all Council departments play an active and important role in Council communications, from ensuring transparency, open government and community engagement, to promoting Council services and facilities, and encouraging community participation in programs and events, such as sport, sustainability, arts and culture.

Council's Communications and Events Department actively promotes Council's developments, achievements, programs, new initiatives and events, and works to enhance and protect Council's reputation. The Communications and Events Department is also the point of contact for all media enquiries and responsible for coordinating and producing communications materials across a wide range of channels.

The current communications environment is continuously changing, making connecting with Council stakeholders more challenging than ever. Stakeholders no longer receive their news from just one or two traditional media sources, but read and disseminate news in a variety of ways, using a wide range of digital and social media platforms. Council must therefore communicate with stakeholders across multiple platforms, including both print and digital media, in order to reach different age groups with different interests.

In recent years Council has embraced digital and social media, with websites, e-newsletters, Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, Instagram and LinkedIn now forming part of the communications mix. Council's audience on these platforms has grown steadily, with the recent addition of in-house videos significantly bolstering our online reach. Going forward, we will continue to grow our presence online and across social media by actively engaging with the community and promoting Council activities and projects on these channels.

While digital and social media platforms have not replaced Council's traditional communication channels, such as print media, printed publicity material and face-to-face customer services, they have become a key component of how Council effectively communicates and receives feedback from our stakeholders.

COMMUNICATIONS VALUES

This Strategy recognises that communications material must be sustainable and decisions about how Council communicates should be made with consideration of our environmental, social, economic and governance frameworks. The principles outlined here apply to all communications.

Framework	Where possible, our communications will:
Environment	Consider and manage the impact of printed communications materials on the environment Use recycled and recyclable materials for printing where practicable Make electronic versions of our printed publications easily accessible on Council's website and, where possible, on social media Direct customers to online forms rather than their printed equivalent
Social	Be diverse, ensuring communication is accessible to people of all backgrounds and interests Encourage two-way communications between Council and the community Ensure communication is clear, timely and concise (avoiding technical jargon and using plain English wherever possible)
Economic	Promote economic development and our CBDs and village centres Consider the best use of Council's limited resources
Governance	Use communication channels to promote open government and to help inform our community with clear, timely and concise content Meet legal and policy obligations for communicating and consulting with relevant stakeholders

Underpinning all communications activities are Council's broad corporate values of sustainability, community service, open government, ethical conduct, justice, quality and teamwork.

HANDLING THE MEDIA

To ensure information communicated by Council is accurate, timely and representative of Council's corporate values and policies, all media queries must be directed in a timely manner to the Communications and Events Department, in accordance with the Media Liaison Policy.

All approaches and pitches to media must be made by the Communications and Events Department.

MEDIA QUERIES

The Mayor and General Manager are the official spokespersons of Council, as detailed in the Media Liaison Policy. In their absence, the Communications and Events Manager can act as Council's spokesperson.

All media interviews involving other Council officers must first be approved by the Communications and Events Manager, their department Director and the General Manager. Media responses will be approved by the Communications and Events Manager, relevant officers and the General Manager.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Council's presence on social media is becoming increasingly important and active. To improve our social media reach we will trial new social media strategies, such as event pages and the use of 'influencers'.

Under Council's Social Media Policy, all Council-moderated and produced social media sites or pages can only be established in consultation with the Communications and Events Department and only staff who have social media moderation incorporated into their role may comment or post on them as the digital "voice of Council".

WHAT OUR COMMUNITY SAYS...

Our last Customer Satisfaction Survey in 2016 identified stakeholders' preferred methods of communication from Council.

North Sydney News, our printed newsletter which is distributed to 50,000 letterboxes, ranked highest in the preferred methods of communication, followed by our e-newsletters, Council's website, leaflets and the Mosman Daily.

However, the way we disseminate and decipher information is changing rapidly, with many people receiving information from a variety of sources, including traditional media, social media sites and community forums.

The challenge for Council is ensuring that we continue to reach and connect with our stakeholders and community effectively through relevant platforms.

In recent years, several new local magazine publications have emerged along with new social media groups and localised websites, which have a wide reach in the local community.

A key activity in this Strategy's Action Plan is to undertake a communications survey which incorporates and evaluates the communications value for Council of these new platforms as well as traditional media.

KEY PRIORITIES GOING FORWARD

1

Engage and inform our community

Communication activities will focus on Council's significant projects and events to ensure that they are widely promoted to both the local and wider community. This will include the creation of innovative, clever and thoughtful communication materials, high quality publication and multi-media assets to actively engage and inform our community. These will use plain English, visual aids in place of lengthy descriptions (where appropriate), and tailor messages to the audience. We recognise people receive and disseminate information in different ways and we will therefore use a range of multi-media across different platforms to engage with our community.

Support economic development in the local business community

We will partner with the local business community, where appropriate, to promote events and activities that support economic development and the night time economy in our CBDs and village centres. This strategy incorporates the promotion of North Sydney as a visitor destination for the first time, to align with the development of Council's Visitor Economy Strategy. We will place increased emphasis on publicising North Sydney as a great place to live, work and visit while also promoting the NTH SYD program to showcase North Sydney CBD as lively, vibrant and fun place to work.

Enhanced digital communications

In recent years, digital communications have emerged as a vital element in any communications strategy. Digital channels such as video, social media and web presence is a key platform for our communication activities, which allow us to vary the ways we communicate with the community and other stakeholders. We have introduced in-house video production for the first time and, going forward, we will continue to expand our digital reach by producing more engaging and educational videos, high-quality photographs and unique online content which promote Council's activities, events and showcase North Sydney as a great place to work, live and visit.

4

Build Council's identity

We will continue to build and enhance Council's reputation by strengthening relationships with local media and by creating suitable content for all types of media. We will promote and protect Council's reputation by clearly communicating Council's key projects and goals, making sure we are accessible and present on social media and actively managing issues as they arise. We will protect Council's corporate identity with an updated Corporate Communications and Visual Standards Manual which will standardise our visual imagery and communications across Council. We will continue to provide a high-quality, in-house graphic design service, and provide appropriate communications tools to staff.

HOW WILL WE MONITOR OUR PROGRESS?

In addition to Council's regular reviews of the Delivery Program, which will monitor the progress of the tasks listed in this strategy's Action Plan, our Communications and Events Department continuously evaluates our communication methods and tools to ensure we are actively engaging with our community and stakeholders in the most efficient and effective ways.

Social media has become a key part of our communications and the Communications and Events Department regularly reviews engagement and growth across these platforms.

A Customer Satisfaction Survey will be undertaken in 2019/20 which will gather feedback on all Council services, including how our residents and stakeholders respond to our different communication methods.

This is in addition to a standalone survey the Communications and Events Department will undertake as a key action in this Strategy to evaluate which communication methods are the most successful and where efforts and resources should be concentrated for the most effective communication outcomes.
